happy hanukkah chag sameach!

During the eight days of Hanukkah (also known as the Festival of Lights), you'll often hear this Hebrew greeting, which means "Happy Holiday!" as people gather around to light the menorah and share a traditional meal together.

Foods fried in oil, like latkes, celebrate the miracle of Hanukkah where one day's worth of oil in the menorah stayed lit for eight days.

happy kwanzaa habari gani!

This Swahili greeting is often shared during the holiday, which is celebrated from December 26 to January 1 and honors African heritage. Celebrations include lighting a candle on the kinara to celebrate seven different principles, storytelling, dancing, and of course, delicious feasts.

One-pot dishes, like this Peanut Stew, are rich in West African flavors—making them an integral dish of Kwanzaa celebrations
